Richard J. Evans, Sr.

Richard J. Evans, Sr., 81, of Millersville, passed away on Tuesday at his residence.

He was the husband of Marguerite A. Morgan Evans, with whom he would have celebrated 60 years of marriage this coming November. Born in Lancaster, Dick was the son of the late Alfred D. and Anna V. Trout Evans.

Dick had worked as a technical specialist at Armstrong World Industries for 38 years until his retirement in 1989. While at Armstrong, he developed 8 patents. After his retirement, he always looked forward to his monthly get-togethers with his buddies from Armstrong. It actually took a few more years after his official retirement for him to "really" retire.

He was a US Army veteran of World War II, serving in the Pacific Theater.

Dick was a loving husband and a great dad. He enjoyed gardening and working in the yard daily (yard tours were mandatory parts of every visit), trips to Atlantic City, and feeding and watching birds. He was a talented do-it-yourselfer and over the years turned houses into warm and special homes for his family. He enjoyed spending time and doing projects with his family - his quick wit filled get-togethers with laughter. His beloved pet, Barney, probably the favorite child, provided many years of companionship. His children reaped the benefits of his determination that they would go to college. Dick was feisty and fun and we miss him already.

He was a 1943 graduate of JP McCaskey High School, and was a member of the St Philip's Guys and Dolls and AARP.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by 2 daughters: Kathleen M. Evans married to Mark Gates of San Diego, CA and Julie A. married to Bruce Rhine of Akron, PA; a son Richard J. Jr., married to Sue Evans of Lancaster; 2 grandchildren: Nathaniel Rhine and Gail Funk; 2 great grandchildren, and a sister Carolyn Hill of Lancaster

OBITUARIES

Seeger Drew Downey

On Tuesday, February 19, 2008, our beloved Seeger Drew Downey, 23, passed away unexpectedly at his family home. Seeger, born in Ardmore, Oklahoma to parents Barbara and Clifford Downey, moved to Lititz as a child and later was a graduate of Warwick High School in the class of 2002. Seeger was drawn to the fine arts and attended Emerson College in Boston where he studied creative writing and poetry. His studies extended to a memorable semester spent in Ireland where he deeply admired and grew to love Irish music, literature, and rugby. Seeger was especially drawn to the beautiful landscape and loved it there almost as much as he loved Boston.

Seeger portrayed a bold courage, daring to speak up for notable causes around the world and to speak against injustice as he saw it. He believed in the common man and the need to treat all people with equal dignity and compassion. Apathy was not a part of his vocabulary and he lived by this axiom every day. He was a loving and kind young man and his passions were heartfelt and unwavering. We deeply mourn his passing and yet pay homage to his life, celebrating all that was good and true in Seeger. He blessed our lives and for that we are profoundly grateful.

Seeger is survived by his parents: Clifford and Barbara Downey of Lititz; his grandparents Herman and Naomi Downey of Ratliff City, Oklahoma; grandparents Bruce and Barbara Pratten of Lancaster; his aunt and uncle Willie and Sharon Castro of Oklahoma; Aunts Linda Harmsen of Manassas, VA and Pamela De Leon of Glasco, New York; aunt and uncle Susan and Steven Craighead, Manassas, VA; his cousins, Spencer and Anya Leon, Cancun, Mexico; Jaime Craighead Manassas, VA; his youngest cousin, Andrew Montero, Cancun, Mexico; and numerous great aunts, uncles and cousins in Oklahoma, Texas and New York.

He gets dizzy

Dr. Peter Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband is 76 years old. Nine years ago, he had open-heart surgery and now takes anticoagulants. He has high blood pressure, which is under control.

The problem is, he is constantly dizzy. Every time he stands, he has to hang onto something for a few minutes before he can start walking around.

He told his last two doctors about this problem, and they just ignored him. I don't know if they are unsure how to treat it or simply don't want to. Can you give us any suggestions about what may be causing this?

DEAR READER: Your husband's dizziness when standing suggests that his blood pressure is too low. He may be overtreated. This is likely related to something called "white-coat hypertension." This simply means that your husband's blood pressure rises, usually because of anxiety or stress, during his appointments but returns to normal between them.

Bring your concerns to his physician and propose the following, which will include a home blood pressure machine: Stop medication two or three days before his next appointment. His blood pressure should be taken during the visit, and his blood pressure machine can be calibrated to the doctor's to ensure it is accurate.

Then, after the visit, he should monitor his blood pressure twice a day at home for one or two weeks. Be sure to keep a record of readings as well as the time of day taken (morning and night). He should then return to the doctor with his results and again have his blood pressure checked while in the medical setting.

I suspect his home readings will be much lower than the readings taken by the doctor. This is not to say he does not have hypertension; he may simply have a mild abnormality that can be controlled with diet, exercise and minimal medication.

If his doctor does not agree to this, it may be time to find a new primary-care physician that is more understanding and willing to listen.

If, however, your husband does not have white-coat hypertension, I recommend that he have a special blood-pressure reading.

First, he will have his pressure taken while lying down, then immediately after sitting up, then again immediately after standing, and finally after standing for several minutes. This type of reading will let the physician know whether your husband has orthostatic hypotension (positional low blood pressure).

Because hypertension and hypotension are a result of circulation problems, your husband may want to see a cardiologist.

Your husband must be careful to rise slowly and have something to aid his balance when standing. If he rises too quickly, he may lose his balance and fall, which can cause serious injury.

In Loving Memory Of John "Skipper" Quirk July 22, 1930 Feb. 22, 2007

The moment you died my heart split in two. The one side filled with memories, the other died with you. If I could have a lifetime wish - a dream that would come true. I'd pray to God with all my heart for yesterday and you. A thousand words can't bring you back - I know because I've tried. And neither will a million tears - I know because I've cried. Remembering you is easy I do it every day. But missing you is a heartache that never goes away. I hold you tightly within my heart and there you will remain. Life goes on without you dear, but I'll never be the same. You left behind my broken heart and cherished memories too. But I never wanted memories, My Love, I only wanted you.

Love, Lynn
